

Gianluca Ignagni, General (retired) of the Carabinieri, is the Chief of Staff of the National Cybersecurity Agency of Italy - ACN since September 2021. In this capacity, he has actively contributed to the numerous legislative, administrative, and organizational activities connected to the start-up of the new Institution. He is the ENISA Management Board Italian Representative (Alternate).

Formerly, he worked at the Italian Presidency of the Council of Ministers, where he developed an extensive experience in both legislative, policymaking, and analytical activities, with a particular focus on cybersecurity. During this period, he participated in the negotiation and/or drafting of almost all the current relevant legislation, among which: the EU Directives “NIS 1” and “NIS 2”, the Electronic Communications Code, the EU Cybersecurity Act, the EU Act on the European Cybersecurity Competence Centre, the Italian National Security Perimeter for Cyber, the Italian national cybersecurity architecture, and eventually the creation of the ACN.

Mr. Ignagni holds a master’s degree in Political Science from the University of Trieste and a master’s degree in Internal and External Security Science from the University of Rome “Tor Vergata”. He graduated in Law from the University of Rome “La Sapienza”. As a junior officer, he attended the Carabinieri Officer’s School in Rome and, previously, the Military Academy of Modena.