PREFACE

Dear reader,

Welcome to the fifth, extended and updated edition of ENISA's Who-is-Who Directory on Network and Information Security. As with previous editions, this directory serves as the 'yellow pages' of Network and Information Security (NIS) in Europe. As such, it is a useful tool for those working closely with NIS issues in Europe. Comprising information on NIS stakeholders (such as national and European authorities and NIS organisations) and contacts, websites and areas of responsibility or activity, I am confident that it will serve well our common mission to enhance NIS security levels in Europe.

This latest 2010 edition has been expanded and includes more contact information and data of EU Member States and European Institutions. All Member States of the EU, EEA as well as EFTA, have provided their most relevant contacts in NIS. Moreover, this edition provides you with more contacts of industry organisations and academia active in the field of NIS. It also contains a section with contacts of both other Pan-European Organisations and International Organisations working in this area.

I would like to thank all contributors for their hard work and fruitful cooperation with ENISA.

The 2010 edition of the Who-is-Who Directory on Network and Information Security is further evidence of the excellent collaborative work between ENISA and the network of national liaison officers (NLOs), who provided ENISA with the relevant data in previous years and with updates for this edition. It also successfully implements one of ENISA's publications foreseen in the Agency's 2009 Work Programme.

Please bear in mind that this is a 'living' document. It should be continuously revised in order to remain valuable for all those interested in NIS: your input is therefore needed and most welcome. Please send suggestions for updates and contributions to directory@enisa.europa.eu. ENISA will deal with them, in close cooperation with the NLOs.

Dr. Udo Helmbrecht
Executive Director ENISA, October 2009

E-mail: cert@cert.ee

<http://www.cert.ee>
<http://www.ria.ee>

Area of responsibility: The constituency is the Estonian National CERT. CERT-EE deals with security incidents arising in Estonian networks, carrying out preventive actions to avoid these, and contributing to Internet-security-related awareness-raising.

The team provides assistance to system administrators, network administrators or customer support in organisations or at Internet service providers. It cooperates with both public agencies and the private sector. As the computer emergency team does not provide services to end-users, the latter should, in case of security incidents, turn to their Internet service providers or system administrators in their organisations, who will cooperate, if necessary, with CERT-EE.

Tel. (358-9) 160 02
E-mail: infosec@mintc.fi

<http://www.mintc.fi>

Area of responsibility: General guidance and development of the communications market and information society including information security.

The Ministry is responsible for legislation and strategy development concerning information security in communications services. Its mission is to ensure that the general public, businesses and government all have confidence in the usability, security and privacy protection of services provided in the information society.

It is responsible for the coordination of the National Information Security Strategy adopted in 2008.

Information Security Group of the Ubiquitous Information Society Advisory Board

Contact information and website:

Ministry of Transport and Communications Finland

PO Box 31
FIN-00023 Government

E-mail: infosec@mintc.fi

<http://www.mintc.fi>

Area of responsibility: The Finnish Government has appointed an advisory board for information society issues, chaired by the Minister of Communications. One of its focus areas is information security, and a group on information security issues has been established (from 09/07–02/11).

Consisted of high-level experts from both private and public sectors, the aim of the group is to promote and follow the development of information security and to take initiatives to improve information security. The group was responsible for outlining a new national information security strategy (adopted in 2008). It also supports the coordination of the strategy's implementation and monitors the implementation process.

Area of responsibility: The core business of our research in safety and security includes:

- embedded wireless energy autonomous microsystems;
- energy harvesting strategies for autonomous microsystems;
- measuring and sensing and strategies;
- design of antennae and communication protocols;
- signal processing and sensor-actuator interfaces;
- redundancy of microsystems and on-chip systems;
- wireless passive and active sensor devices and radio frequency identification tags;
- surface and bulk acoustic wave devices for sensor, radio frequency identification and frequency control applications;
- research on materials of suitability of surface and bulk acoustic wave components.

Area of responsibility: Network development and NIS research. The Institute of Computer Science (ICS) has had a relatively long history and recognised tradition, since its establishment in 1983, in conducting basic and applied research, developing applications and products, providing services, and playing a leading role in Greece and internationally, in the fields of Information and Communication Technologies. Activities of ICS cover important research and development areas, encompassing new perspectives, emerging fields of research and technological challenges worldwide. ICS acts as a catalyst for the development of the Information and Communication Technologies sector in Greece, and the creation of favourable conditions for the emergence of an Information Society acceptable by all citizens.

SAFE-NL

(Platform for Security, Applications, Formal Aspects and Environments in The Netherlands)

Contact information and website:

Tel. (31-24) 365 27 10

E-mail: jhh@cs.ru.nl

<http://www.safe-nl.org>

Area of responsibility: The 'platform for Security, Applications, Formal Aspects and Environments' in The Netherlands (SAFE-NL) is the main community for R&D cooperation in ICT security. SAFE-NL provides a forum for researchers and practitioners from research institutions, industry and government agencies to exchange ideas on the state of the art in security technology, current and novel application areas of this technology, and on the requirements for effective deployment of secure systems. To this end, SAFE-NL organises informal one-day workshops on security in The Netherlands, provides a moderated public mailing list for the exchange of ideas over security, and maintains this community website to inform a larger public of its activities. The scope of SAFE NL includes:

- Algorithms, protocols and tools for security.
- Secure system design.
- Hardware security (e.g. smart cards).
- Verification and validation methods for secure systems.
- Data models and policies for secure systems.
- Legal, social, organisational and economical aspects of security.

Area of responsibility: TUFF is a forum for the exchange of information and the promotion of a united effort against telecommunications fraud. Its objectives are to:

- provide a discussion forum for member organisations;
- promote an open and cooperative environment;
- provide TUFF contacts in the different member organisations;
- encourage telecommunications network operators in the UK to seek membership;
- establish working relationships with other similar fraud forums in the UK and overseas;
- form strategic alliances with consumer bodies and intermediate service providers;
- identify fraud risks;
- identify and define fraud methods;
- generate appropriate documentation and raise awareness of tools and tangible methods with a view to enabling the industry to manage fraud more effectively.

BCS Security Forum

Contact information and website:

<http://www.bcs.org/server.php?show=nav.6046>

Area of responsibility: BCS members can participate in discussions at the new security forum discussion area. The aim of the BCS Security Forum is to be a catalyst for change within the ICT and information security community. These forums have been set up as another way of increasing the impact and recognition of IT professionals. They complement the work of other successful groups within BCS such as the specialist groups and branches and aim to provide a mechanism by which members can understand and influence their sector of interest at the highest level. The security community is diverse, and its influence wide-ranging, but its effectiveness can only be enhanced if it speaks with a single, authoritative voice on matters of importance to the citizen, business, commerce and government. The success of the security forum lies in its ability to deliver this.

Friedheimweg 14	Fax (41-31) 322 45 66
CH-3003 Bern	E-mail: info@isb.admin.ch

<http://www.isb.admin.ch>

Area of responsibility: The Federal Strategy Unit for IT (FSUIT) is the administrative unit of the Federal IT Council (FITC). It draws up the federal IT requirements and submits an application to the FITC for the necessary changes. The FSUIT ensures implementation in the departments and the Federal Chancellery through appropriate control measures. It also spearheads interdepartmental projects and programmes. The FSUIT also runs the programme office of e-government Switzerland.

In the area of critical information infrastructure protection, FSUIT is responsible for Melani and Govcert.ch.

Melani - the Reporting and Analysis Centre for Information Assurance - was set up for the early detection and resolution of problems in the information and communication infrastructure. It serves two customer groups:

- the Closed Customer Base (CCB), which includes certain selected operators of national critical infrastructures in Switzerland; and

- the Open Customer Base (OCB), which includes SMEs as well as home computer users.

Melani's main task lies in supporting the information security process within Switzerland's critical national infrastructure. Melani is a partnership project between FSUIT and the Federal Office of Police. For more information, visit: <http://www.melani.admin.ch>.

Govcert is part of Melani and run by the head of Melani at FSUIT. Its mission is to provide CERT services to Melani's Closed Customer Base including the Federal Administration.

E-mail: info@fedpol.admin.ch

<http://www.fedpol.admin.ch>

Area of responsibility: The Federal Office of Police (Fedpol) works with its international and cantonal partners as a centre for information, coordination and analysis in matters concerning the internal security of Switzerland. Its activities include preventive measures in the field of national security and the protection of people and sites considered to be at risk. Fedpol also assumes tasks connected with criminal prosecution, particularly in connection with the fight against organized crime. Besides coordinating investigation procedures, fedpol makes its own investigations into the drug trade, including its financing, and counterfeiting. It also manages the Money Laundering Reporting Office Switzerland. Fedpol carries out its own investigations under the direction of the Attorney General of Switzerland in cases of extremely serious crimes involving organised crime, money laundering and corruption. The Swiss Cybercrime Coordination Unit (CYCO) is the central office where persons can report suspect Internet subject matter. After an initial examination of the report and safeguarding of the data, the report is forwarded to the respective national or foreign law enforcement. CYCO also searches actively for criminal subject matter on the Internet and is responsible for indepth analysis of cybercrime. CYCO as a competence centre is open to the public, the authorities and Internet service providers for any legal, technical and criminalistic question in the cyber-crime field. As the national coordination unit, CYCO is the point of contact for centres abroad fulfilling analogous functions.

Area of responsibility:

ENISA is as a body set up by the EU to carry out a very specific technical, scientific or management task within the 'Community domain' ('first pillar') of the EU.

The agency's mission is essential to achieve a high and effective level of network and information security within the EU. Together with the EU institutions and the Member States, ENISA seeks to develop a culture of network and information security for the benefit of citizens, consumers, business and public-sector organisations in the EU.

Operative networks contribute to the smooth functioning of the Internal Market, and concretely affect the daily lives of the citizens and business alike, using broadband, digital banking, ecommerce, and mobile phones.

The agency also assists the European Commission in the technical preparatory work for updating and developing Community legislation in the field of network and information security.

<http://www.esa.int>

Area of responsibility: The European Space Agency (ESA) is Europe's gateway to space. Its mission is to shape the development of Europe's space capability and ensure that investment in space continues to deliver benefits to the citizens of Europe and the world. ESA is an intergovernmental organisation with no formal organic link to the European Commission. The two institutions have different Member States and are governed by different rules and procedures. However, in recent years the ties between the two institutions have been reinforced by a Framework Agreement which entered into force in May 2004. Recent joint initiatives include the European global navigation satellite system called Galileo, as well as the Global Monitoring for Environment and Security services.

The ESA Security Office was established with the overall responsibility to provide ESA with all the required basic security capabilities and to enable management of space programmes with specific security elements.
